

VINGE

A good commercial lawyer...

...sees beyond the law.

We know what we are talking about.

Over the past decade, Vinge has advised in most of the largest cross-border corporate acquisitions in Scandinavia. We are the market leaders in Scandinavia in the field of corporate transactions. We regularly appear at the top of the European legal rankings, both as a firm and within our specialised fields.

We are Vinge.

We are the sum of our employees. It is their collective skills, competence and experience that make Vinge unique. Our position as a leading firm makes it easier for us to recruit people of the highest level of ability, which in turn contributes towards further enhancing our capability.

Although we have a number of employees with degrees in economics and law, we do not value theoretical knowledge alone. Working for Vinge also involves being responsive to our clients' needs and providing the highest levels of service. We do everything we can to help our clients achieve success in business. We see beyond the problems. Vinge seeks solutions. It is as simple as that.

Welcome to Vinge.

We are commercial lawyers.

International business law is becoming increasingly complex and demanding. Only a few Scandinavian law firms are able to operate successfully in today's competitive market. Vinge is one of them.

At Vinge we do not give advice without taking the commercial consequences into consideration. We are aware that companies nowadays are not judged on financial grounds alone but also from a social and environmental perspective. We must therefore also foresee the ethical implications of legal and commercial decisions. We consider not only what is right at any given time but we also evaluate possible long-term consequences. In short: a good commercial lawyer sees beyond the law.

Vinge is a full service firm.

Until the 1980s there was no Swedish law firm with expertise in all types of commercial law. This changed in 1983 when four law firms merged to form Vinge. Today we are one of the biggest law firms in Scandinavia. We specialise in commercial law and we can take an overall approach as well as providing in-depth knowledge.

Our broad experience and expertise mean that we are called upon to handle all kinds of commercial law issues. We have learned by experience what resources and services are required in order to find the right solutions to our clients' problems.

Why Vinge?

Business today often involves complicated deals and relationships, frequently across borders. It is more important than ever to be precise in drafting agreements and in business relationships. Furthermore, the global economy is in a constant state of flux. Finding solutions to new problems requires legal experts with the right experience.

Look upon us as your guide.

All Vinge employees have the same focus: to help our clients do business successfully. Most business deals involve an element of risk. Our job is to identify the legal risks, but we do not stop there. Risks are not always obstacles. We advise on how risks can be handled and weighed against business opportunities.
